"Through the Breakers" at the Park

Theater. "Through the Breakers," Owen Davis's thrilling melodrama of life on the rocky ceast of England, made its second annual appearance at the Park Theater yesterday afternoon. Although the play is not provided with as good a company as last season, the audience at yesterday's matinee seemed to scarcely notice this fact. The an interesting story of love and villainy and has a number of exciting climaxes. and after all these are the things that bring success in the melodramatic field. J. H. Cossar as Peter Turner, the scoundrelly leading citizen, was by far the best Stewart as James Thorndike, the close friend and ally of Stephen Douglas, hero of the play, was also worthy of special mention. Edwin Trevor impersonated Geddes, Miss Emma King and Rev. M. L. DENMAN-ABRAMS. Stephen Douglas in an uneven ruanner. In the great struggle in the bedroom at the close of the third act he was excellent. This situation, which showed Douglas, a of applause and cheers. The beautiful view of the smugglers' den, with the realistic rolling sea in the background, is still shown and excites as favorable comment as on the occasion of the piece's first presentation at the Park. The theater was crowded at both performances yesterday and will doubtless continue so the remainder of the week, for "Through the Breakers" is one of the most popular plays that come to the Park in a season.

Pusey and St. John have succeeded Ward and Vokes in the hilarious farce, "A Run on the Bank," and will be seen in this piece at the Park Theater the first three days of next week. They are said to be surrounded by a company of people who sing, dance and in other ways keep up a whirlwind of amusement.

The great beauty of the Southern setting of Miss Louise Dresser's pickaninny act at the Grand this week is becoming more apparent as the electrician acquires familiarity with the lighting scheme required. The varying degrees from dawn to daylight, then to twilight, and finally night, are shown with much realism.

XXX "Miss Prinnt," the musical comedy in Herron, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter, Mr. lish's Opera House next Tuesday night, affords her a character in which she is enabled to reveal her great versatility. The plece is described as rapid of action, novel in construction and abounding with charming melody, pretty women, handsome cos-tumes and gorgoeous scenic surroundings.

The coming of Bettina Girard to the Grand next week will doubtless result in an increased attendance, for not so very many years ago this young woman was one of the most talked about people of the stage. The last event of the current week at English's Opera House is the engagement of James K. Hackett and Bertha Galland, surrounded by an unusually large and capable company, presenting "The Pride of Jennico" to-night and to-morrow night. A matinee performance would have been given to-morrow afternoon if Mr. Hackett's manager had consented to the reduction in prices that local theatergoers have come to expect. He declined to do this for the very excellent reason that in other cities the matinee performances have been almost as well patronized as those at night, and at the same scale of prices.

ANNUAL BALL AT THE GERMAN HOUSE A SUCCESS.

Attendance Was Larger Than Usual - Other Balls Heid During the Evening.

One of the largest affairs of the season was the Marion Club dance given last night at the German House, which, for brilliancy and number, exceeded anything of the kind given in Indianapolis for some time. With few exceptions all of the members of the club and their friends were present'and all enjoyed to the fullest extent the good things provided by the entertainment committee. Klausman's orchestra of twenty pieces played the music for the dancing, and it included all of the latest two-step and waltz music. Before the grand march was formed a varied programme of popular music was rendered.

The clubhouse, which needs but little decoration, was adorned with palms, placed here and there in groups, on the landings, about the stage and grouped in the corners. The grand march formed about 9 o'clock, led by Mr. C. C. Perry, president of the club, with Mrs. Frank Fuller, and followed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Criticism of the Boer War. LONDON, Feb. 14.-On the resumption of business in the House of Lords, the Lord Chancellor read the King's speech and the Marquis of Waterford (Conservative), moved the address in reply. He is, perhaps, the youngest member to whom the honor has ever been accorded. Lord Manners seconded the motion.

Lord Kimberley, the Liberal leader, after complimenting the mover and seconder of the address, said the House needed no further assurances that the King would follow in the steps of his mother, and proceeded to discuss the conduct of the war in South Africa. The government had been living in a fool's paradise. Unless they enabled Lord Kitchener to speedily terminate the war, the situation could easily become more dangerous. If the government attempted to put the whole military system on a more satisfactory basis, they would receive every support from the Liberals. his congratulations to the mover and seconder of the address, and proceeded to refer to the manner in which the country's loss had been received throughtout the world. Dealing with the war, Lord Salisbury thought there was nothing unusual in the length of the campaign. He referred Lord Kimberley to the Indian mutiny an the American war, between which and the South African campaign there was a great resemblance. In Bosnia, it took two years and the whole power of Austria to conquer the peasants. Where great enthusiasm and persistency exist in a country like South Africa, months must elapse before tranquillity could be restored. Therefore, he did not believe there was any rea ground for the discontent or apprehensions expressed by Lord Kimberley. It was four years before the whole efforts of that intelligent and most efficient commi ity, North America, were able to bring the war of secession to a final and successfu issue. He would be glad to hear Lord Kimberley repudiate all idea of asking the government to alter its conduct toward the enemy. It was the business of the government to put its whole heart and strength urged the government to adopt action short of what was implied in carrying the operations to a successful issue. If the enemy were allowed to retain any portion of their independence it would involve in cessant, continuous warfare. Unless the British were masters and conquerors these territories, there was no hope of abiding peace. What the country shoul do with the power when obtained was another question. But it was perfectly obvious that the first purpose to which the enemy would put any powers granted them would be to accumulate new forces and new arms, to await a fitting occasion for a new attack. If Great Britain slackened her efforts it would be an avowal to the world that her frontier could be invaded in the most insulting manner and that the empire was powerless to effectively resist it. If Lord Kimberley could impose his opinion on his party generally it would be a great advantage to the empire, as it would dispel the impression in South Africa that an important party movement in their favor existed in this country, and it would eral leader, after wishing the King and Queen might have a long and happy reign, took up the political paragraphs speech from the throne. He asked the House to face the facts in connection with the war. They must not shut their eyes to the gravity of the situation in South Africa. He dwelt at length on the miscalculations of the government and paid a warm tribute to the army, saying he thought there was no reason to withhold the fullest confidence from the generals in the field. Mr. A. J. Balfour, the government leader, followed. He admitted that the government had not foreseen that the leaders of the Boers would be so ill advised in their own interest and the interest of their country as to continue the struggle. The govern-ment, he said, had exceeded Lord Kitchener's demands rather than fallen short of them, adding that the Boer leaders "know perfectly well that if they lay down their arms their persons and property will be respected and equal rights granted to all. More than this," continued Mr. Balfour, "the Boer leaders know that as soon as it becomes possible free institutions will be adopted. His Majesty's government holds that it would be perfect insanity to grant all the institutions of self-government walle the effects of war are still visible. We have put our hand to the plow and shall not withdraw it. The war will be continued until it comes to the only conclusion consistent with our honor." The Irish Nationalists held a meeting this afternoon, under the chairmanship of John Redmond, and decided to move amendments to the address, on questions regarding compulsory land purchase, Irish administration, the South African war and

BAD BLOOD, BAD COMPLEXION.

The skin is the seat of an almost endless variety of diseases. They are known by various names, but are all due to the same cause, acid and other poisons in the blood that irritate and interfere with the proper action of the skin. To have a smooth, soft skin, free from all eruptions, the blood must be kept pure and healthy. The many preparations of arsenic and potash and the large number of face powders and lotions generally used in this class of diseases cover up for a short time, but cannot remove permanently the ugly blotches and the red, disfiguring pimples.

Eternal vigilance is the price of a beautiful complexion when such remedies are relied on. Mr. H. T. Shobe, 2704 Lucas Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., says: "My daughter was afflicted for years with a disfiguring eruption on her face, which resisted all treatment. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many medicines were prescribed, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished the eruption began to disappear. A dozen bottles cured herecompletely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now seventeen years old, and not a sign of the embarrassing disease has ever returned." S. S. S. is a positive, unfailing cure for the worst forms of skin troubles. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Bad blood makes bad complexions.

purifies and invigorates the old and makes new, rich blood that nourishes the body and keeps the skin active and healthy and in proper condition to perform its part towards carrying off the impurities from the body.

If you have Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, or your skin is rough and pimply, send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases and write our physicians about your case. No charge whatever for this service.
